Dear Fellow Patriots,

Earlier this month, at a Catholic education conference, the keynote speaker quoted Nobel Peace Prize recipient, Muhammad Yunus as saying, "We must teach tomorrow's leaders to maximize purpose rather than profits. The world's problems cannot be solved and individuals cannot be at peace without the riches of compassion, service, good will, and respect for all human beings."

Yunus' words reflect the mission of Catholic schools, specifically our own Carroll High School. Our goal has always been to educate our students to "be more and do more". We want our students to see themselves as part of the global community, a community that needs their gifts and talents. We want our students to carry with them into the world a higher sense of purpose and the potential for doing good.

Principal Matt Sableski, Class of '91

Our school is blessed with extraordinary students, talented musicians, great athletes, gifted thespians, and people of great character and faith! Being successful at Carroll High School means something significant to colleges and employers. It means that you are highly educated: that you have demonstrated the ability to listen carefully, to think critically, to reason analytically, to imagine creatively, to explore alternative viewpoints, to maintain intellectual curiosity, and to speak and write persuasively. However, we all know a Carroll education provides a deeper foundation that underlies all of these qualities, allowing us to say with confidence to whomever we meet that we are Patriots.

This year, Carroll students continued the tradition of excellence by receiving numerous awards for academics, athletics, and the arts.

Additionally, the class of 2012 earned over $10 million in scholarships to the colleges of their choice. However, equally impressive is that our students logged thousands of service hours, participated in Christian service work camp, and completed over 50 service projects for the school's 50th anniversary. In fact, on their very first day of summer, nearly thirty members of this year's graduating class gave their time and sweat for Habitat for Humanity.

As we enjoy the slower days of the summer months, I have had some time to reflect on the Carroll community and I find myself awestruck by the events of the past year. The 2011-2012 academic year was extraordinary in many ways. It was a time filled with transition through changing leadership, excitement of our 50th anniversary celebration, enjoyment of facility upgrades, exhilaration of another state championship, and grieving for student, alumni and family members who died far too young. Throughout all of these ups and downs, the Carroll spirit remained strong and true.

This is a very special place and the knowledge gained, faith lived, and memories made will be with each of us for a lifetime. I thank each and every one of you for helping to build the Carroll legacy. Your efforts as students, and contributions of time, talent and treasure as alumni and friends, have helped to sustain Carroll for the past 50 years and will help us continue to thrive long into the future. We are all part of Carroll's past, present and future, and as I've said so many times throughout the year, "It is a great day to be a Patriot!"

God Bless,

Matthew Sableski, '91

Carroll High School Going Green

When Carroll High School was built in 1960, it was constructed with the typical lighting fixtures and heating system of the day; it was affordable and fairly energy efficient for the time period.

However, 50 years later, lighting and heating efficiencies have come a long way. In fact, they have come so far that significant energy and money can be saved by upgrading to today's efficient lighting and heating systems. This summer, we are in the process of becoming the first school in the Archdiocese to complete a major energy efficiency overhaul!

Catholic Social Teaching calls us to care for the earth and be good stewards of the planet. This project is an outward sign of practicing what we preach. Additionally, with the rising cost of Catholic education, we are always looking for ways to keep tuition costs down.

One of the most exciting ways we are carrying out this value is with our decision to become much more energy efficient. Using less energy not only means cost savings but also means less use of fossil fuels, which can help our environment. Under the direction of Physics instructor and energy efficiency guru, Jeff Bohrer, and with the help of Energy Optimizers, USA, we will be replacing or retrofitting every light in the school. The new lighting will use much less energy while at the same time provide better and brighter lighting quality. Notable in this part of the project is that all of the classrooms will have brand new fixtures by the time school begins this fall; exit signs and Chapel lighting will be replaced with LEDs and lighting in hallways, classrooms, auxiliary gym and bathrooms will be outfitted with occupancy sensors. Already last year, Carroll began lighting upgrades by replacing our main foyer and main gym/ stage area lights with motion sensors and brighter, energy-efficient lighting.

Additionally, Energy Optimizers will be replacing Carroll's boiler system this summer. Original to the building, our old boilers are only 70% efficient. The new condensing boiler will be 94% efficient, thereby creating an energy savings in both natural resources and money. All of our heating unit ventilators will be inspected and repaired in the classrooms, as well, providing reliable operation of the heating system during the cold winter months.

Carroll is also optimizing our energy efficiency through new water-efficient technology. New low-flow aerators have been placed throughout the building thanks to a free program sponsored by Vectren. The new aerators reduce wasteful water flow from 5 gallons/minute to 1 gallon/minute. This results in an 80% savings in water usage at all faucets and also saves energy by reducing hot water use.

Energy Optimizers, USA updates hallway lighting

To pay for this project, Carroll is taking advantage of significant rebates from DP&L and Vectren. And, as Jeff Bohrer explains, “Carroll will assume a loan to cover the upfront cost of the project. The beauty of the project is, however, that the annual savings on utility bills from the energy upgrades is guaranteed by Energy Optimizers, USA to be greater than the annual loan payments. This is truly a win-win project!” Additionally, after the ten-year loan is paid in full, Carroll will be saving over $30,000 per year in reduced energy costs.

Another way we carry out our Catholic values is exemplified through our Recycling Club. The club consists of 75 students working in teams to empty recycling bins that have been placed in strategic locations throughout the building. These are emptied into recycling dumpsters on our property which are then picked up by our contracted recycling company.

Additionally, by communicating more through e-mails and our website, we are able to reduce the amount of mailings we send throughout the year, resulting in savings of paper and postage costs. As the costs of a Catholic education continue to rise, we are ever fiscally aware of how we can reduce these expenses. One example we've implemented this year is our new online winter edition of Reflections, still available for viewing in the Alumni section of our website.

Renewable Energy Class trip to view Cincinnati Zoo's use of solar energy technology.

Abiding by our responsibility to teach our Catholic values to our students, we offer a Renewable Energy class, taught by Jeff Bohrer. To our knowledge, this class is the only one of its kind in any high school. Available in Grades 11 and 12, with certain prerequisites (see CHS Course Catalog on the CHS website), this semester-long engineering course covers in-depth pertinent topics relating to renewable energy sources. The class focuses on the underlying physical and technological principles of certain renewable energy sources. Engineering design, as well as environmental impacts, costs and future prospects are also studied. Renewable energy topics include thermal solar, photo voltaic solar and wind. A field trip to see the solar power project at the Cincinnati Zoo and hands-on labs are integral to the course.

We have only just begun to penetrate this new "green" frontier. There are many more avenues to explore. Carroll will continue to re-evaluate the way we operate to become even more fiscally and energy conscious. We look forward to new possibilities and sharing these values with our students and to carrying out our call to care for God's creation!

Care For God's Creation

The world that God created has been entrusted to all of us. Our stewardship of the earth is a form of participation in God's act of creating and sustaining the world.

In our use of creation, we must be guided by a concern for generations to come. We show our respect for the Creator by our care for creation.

Thank You and Farewell

This year, we say farewell to 10 teachers and staff. Five are retiring while five are leaving for other endeavors. We wanted to acknowledge them and share with you a little bit about them and their contributions to Carroll High School. You can find a more comprehensive report about each person by clicking on the Latest News article link on our website or scanning »

Eldora Perfilio - Mrs. Perfilio is retiring from Carroll, having taught two levels of French and Spanish at Carroll between 1978-1986 and then again from 1993 until 2012; 26 years. Her favorite memories include the many “personalities” she has encountered in her classes; “it has never been boring.” She has sponsored trips to France, Spain and Italy for both students and adults.

Tom Clark - Mr. Clark, a Carroll alum from the first graduating class of ‘65, began teaching English, Speech, Film and Theater at Carroll from 1969-1973 and returned again in 2001 to teach Latin and English. He has been instrumental in the involvement of the Muse Machine at Carroll. As he retires, he has been asked to serve on their Board.

Dennie Stieritz - “The first word that comes to mind when I think of my years at Carroll is ‘family.’ These are the words of Mrs. Stieritz, teacher at Carroll since 1986; 25 years. At retirement, she served as chairperson of the Theology Dept. In 1999, she began the “Carroll Around The Globe” activity when she became aware of the many ways Carroll’s alumni serve the gospel in countries throughout the world.

Bill Fisher - Mr. Fisher began work in Carroll’s Maintenance Dept. on June 5, 2007. Even though employed part-time, Bill has spent countless hours helping out around the campus. With a smile and positive attitude, Bill has been a constant inspiration to our Patriot community. As he retires, Bill affirms, “I will miss the daily interaction with the students but will still be around helping where I am needed.”

Mike Donohue - With a total of 39 years at Carroll, Mr. Donohue taught English for five years and served as Guidance Counselor for 38. He also founded the Carroll soccer team in 1975, which he coached for 17 years. At retirement, he reflects that the most important lessons he has taught his students are “respect yourself and others” and “your future is ahead of you, not behind you.” Mike states, “Carroll students, families and staff have been the greatest!”

Steve Bartlett - Mr. Bartlett will be taking on the role of Head Football Coach and Social Studies teacher at Miami Trace High School. Steve started in these same roles at Carroll in 1995. Under his leadership on the football field, Carroll reached its first playoff berth in 1999 thus making it into the playoffs in nine of 15 seasons with the Patriots. Having won several teaching awards, he has also assisted with extracurricular activities such as chaperoning trips to Washington D.C. for the annual March For Life and the Junior Optimist Club. Steve is married to Pam Bartlett.

Pam Bartlett - Mrs. Bartlett has been Carroll's Fundraising Coordinator since 2007, in addition to her work as a staff nurse at Miami Valley Hospital's Family Beginnings. Pam and Steve have five children who have all graduated from Carroll. In addition to fundraising, she has also chaperoned the March For Life trips and has assisted with other various Carroll activities. Her favorite memories are the State Playoff games.

Rob Bosticco - Mr. Bosticco began teaching Math and Robotics at Carroll in the fall of 2002, having worked at various engineering and management positions at GM - Moraine and FANUC Robotics in Mason. During his tenure here, he helped moderate the JETS (Junior Engineering Technology Society) team, now known as TSA (Technology Student Association). He also served as a Junior Class moderator for 8 years. "I'll fondly remember all the relationships I developed with my students and fellow faculty and staff."

Veronica Papio - Becoming a Registered Nurse in 1983, Mrs. Papio joined Carroll as School Nurse in 2007. In addition to working as an adjunct faculty member at Wright State University's College of Nursing and Health, Veronica envisions working as a School Nurse for another school system in the area. She notes, "I will miss interacting with the students and staff at Carroll!"

Karen Schmitt - Karen has served as Carroll's School Psychologist since 2009. Working through the Beavercreek Schools system, Karen was a joy to work with and we will miss her both personally and professionally!

For your dedication to Carroll High School, we thank you all! For your friendship to our Patriot community, we are blessed! You will all be greatly missed!

The 2012-2013 school year will also be a year of transition for the Athletic Department. Long time Athletic Director, Jim Kuntz, will step into the role of part time Associate Athletic Director as he prepares for retirement. Scott Molfenter, who has served the Carroll community as a teacher, award winning soccer coach and Assistant Athletic Director will move to the role of Athletic Director. We thank Jim for his many years of dedicated service and wish Scott much success as AD! 2012 Walk For Carroll

The Carroll High School Walk-a-thon has been an annual school fundraiser since 1986, its inaugural debut in honor of the school's 25th anniversary. On May 2, students participated in the 27th Annual Walk for Carroll. This fundraising effort involved a 7-mile walk for students and faculty. A venue change this year positioned the walkers on the bike path between Spinning and North Fairfield Roads, a refreshing change for staff and students!

“students rose to the occasion... exceeding our goal for a total of 112%”

The purpose of the walk is to cover the gap between tuition charged per student and the actual cost of educating our young people today. Funds generated from this walk also will help fund improvements around our campus including upgrades to the auxiliary and main gyms. The students rose to the occasion and solicited pledges from friends, family and neighbors meeting and exceeding our goal for a total of 112%, securing $55,564.98! Thank you to all those who contributed to the success of this event!

Wrapping Up Our 50th Anniversary Celebration

The 2011-12 school year offered Carroll High School many opportunities to celebrate its 50th anniversary. Every aspect of the weekend celebration in October 2011 far exceeded expectations, as can be seen in the January online edition of Reflections at www.carrollhs.org/alumni.

Festivities did not end that weekend, however. Second semester brought with it some celebrations of its own.

Nico Flores and Ian Brown carry class banners spanning Carroll's 50-year history.

On Thursday, January 26th, Cincinnati Archbishop Dennis M. Schnurr presided over a special 50th Anniversary Mass at Carroll High School. In his homily, Archbishop Schnurr offered his congratulations to those gathered and expressed his gratitude for being invited to join in the celebration. "The Archdiocese rejoices with all of you – students, teachers, staff, board members, benefactors, alumni, Cincinnati Archbishop Dennis Schnurr leading the opening prayer with Fr. David Brinkmoeller standing to his right.

and everybody who had a part in the life of this institution," he said. "Congratulations and best wishes." The Archbishop also offered special thanks to the faculty and staff of Carroll, both past and present "for all you have done and continue to do to help our students open their hearts and minds to the teaching of Jesus, for all you have done and continue to instill and nurture the faith." Following Mass, in preparation for Catholic Schools Week, Archbishop Schnurr conveyed his gratitude for Catholic schools and answered student questions across the Archdiocese through a live-streamed webcast from Carroll's own library! To see the full article about Carroll's 50th Anniversary in the Catholic Telegraph, go to www.thecatholictelegraph.com/carroll-high-school-celebrates-50-years-of-education-and-faith/6923 or simply scan this QR code.

On Wednesday, May 2nd, birthday cake was provided for all of Carroll's students. No 'birthday' is completely celebrated without delicious cake! Thanks to Sam's Club who donated one of the cakes.

As Lauren Lush '02 stated in the Spring 2002 issue of the Carroll Torch: "Carroll High School still stands with honor and Patriot pride. It continues to establish itself as one of the top academic schools in the state of Ohio. Carroll has grown a lot since its beginning in 1961. It has grown in spirituality, academics, and extracurricular activities. Most importantly, we've grown together as Patriots. We have been brought here through the talents of many people and are still standing strong. Carroll's history is what got us here today; now it is up to us as students, faculty, and alumni to build on one another and continue what we are doing: creating our Legacy of Excellence." Here's to another 50 years!

Meet Dr. Mark Stibich, Class of 1991

“My time at Carroll High School gave me the confidence to do whatever I wanted...whatever I thought best at that time. As I left Carroll, I knew I was off to college, but apart from that, I didn’t have a concrete plan. I think my plan was to do my best and learn everything I could.”

These are the words of Dr. Mark Stibich, Chief Scientific Officer of Xenex Healthcare Services, who recently was named one of Houston’s “40 under 40” top business leaders by the Houston Business Journal.

Dr. Mark Stibich, Class of '91

According to Morris Miller, CEO of Xenex, “Dr. Stibich is a cornerstone of Xenex’ success and richly deserves this honor. He is widely respected by fellow scientists, customers, investors, and colleagues, and I can think of no finer example of a ‘rising star’ than Dr. Stibich. It’s my belief that in the years to come he will be viewed as the person responsible for solving the world’s Hospital-Acquired Infection (HAI) crisis.”

In 2008, Mark began commercializing a high-tech disinfection system to lower the microbial contamination in hospitals and other patient care settings. He and his wife, Julie (also a PhD epidemiologist), evaluated the market, developed the technological applications, partnered with business development experts, and created and founded Xenex Healthcare Services in 2009. In his position as Chief Scientific Officer, Mark helps customers understand and solve their infection control problems while analyzing hospital results, conducts scientific research, and oversees product development.

According to the May 24, 2012 article in the Houston Business Journal, “HAIs are the fourth leading cause of death in the U.S. and account for 100,000 deaths every year, costing the healthcare system approximately $30 billion. Xenex offers the fastest, safest, and most cost-effective method for the automated disinfection of healthcare facilities, such as patient rooms, ORs, and ICUs. Customers have reported a 67% reduction in hospital acquired Clostridium difficile infections, a $2.3 million dollar savings from MRSA prevention, and more after using the Xenex system for only a few months. Dr. Stibich and the exciting results his customers are reporting have recently been featured in Forbes, CNN, Infection Control Today, and many more.”

Mark is very modest when asking him about his accomplishments and considers the entire team of people at Xenex to have contributed to his success. In his own words, other extraordinary achievements of his include

“surviving 6-year old twin girls (at least so far); starting his own company that now has approximately 30 employees; filing six patents; and learning to make chocolate truffles.”

Mark received his doctoral training from the John Hopkins School of Public Health, graduating in 2004, his Masters in International Health from John Hopkins in 2000, and his Bachelor of Arts in Religious Studies from Yale University in 1995. Through the years, he has been involved with multiple international research and intervention projects. From 1996-1998, Mark was in Darkhan, Mongolia as a health volunteer teaching English and first aid classes to nursing students. For five months in 2000, he trained Peace Corps health volunteers in Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia. Towards the end of that year, he landed a consulting job with a USAID project. In that role, he led a team of Mongolian journalists for two months through the Mongolian Gobi desert region, visiting villages to find case studies of businesses that had successfully transitioned from communism to capitalism. The idea was that the journalists would write articles and radio press releases about the success stories and educate others. From 2003-2006, Mark directed HIV/AIDS research and intervention projects at a national level in Russia and the former Soviet Union.

In regards to words of wisdom for fellow Carroll alumni or current students, Mark says, “I would encourage everyone to become an expert in something. Dive deep and establish total understanding of one thing. No matter what the topic is - cooking, sports, statistics, or history - you end up gaining the skills to dive deep anywhere else you want. I think the most important thing I learned is that I can teach myself anything. Just grab books, read articles, and in a week or two, you can know more than most people on a subject. This will lead you somewhere unexpected and better than you could have imagined. I started thinking I would be a teacher. I ended up being an epidemiologist and entrepreneur - combining business with preventing infections. I would have never guessed that and I would have never went in that direction if Carroll High School had not taught me that it is okay to ‘geek out’ and be an exceptional learner and individual.”

“I would encourage everyone to become an expert in something. Dive deep and establish total understanding of one thing.”

Congratulations, Mark, on your outstanding accomplishments!

Announcing Distinguished Alumni Hall of Fame Recipients

2012 Inductees will be honored on Saturday, September 8, 2012 at the Hilton Garden Inn in Beavercreek.

Fr. Stanley Neiheisel, Honorary Patriot

Ordained in 1960, Fr. Neiheisel came to Carroll a year later as a part-time religion teacher. He continued at Carroll working as a counselor and the head of the guidance department until 1968 when he accepted the appointment as principal, serving in this capacity until 1974. As principal, Fr. Stan pulled the community together and encouraged more parental involvement. Under his leadership and own labor of service as an example, the football stadium, wrestling and band room addition was built and the first marching band was formed. He also helped to set an academic but light and cheerful tone for the school - the field day concept was initiated, school spirit was spread, and class electives and innovative days were started.

Carol (Gasper) Huber, Class of 1968

Serving from 1975 until 2001, Carol patrolled the streets in the City of Dayton as a police officer. After the 1979 incident, Carol worked as a forgery detective for 15 years and won scores of commendations. In 1994, she was named "Ohio's Top Cop" by the National Association of Police Organizations in Washington DC and was congratulated by President Clinton. Carol was nominated for the Medal of Valor from the City of Dayton when she retired in 2001 for her bravery performed above and beyond the call of duty in 1979. This is the highest honor a police officer can receive without dying in the line of duty. Carol is currently an assistant vice president managing the security and corporate fraud department of First Financial Bank.

Tamara helped implement these programs in Honduras, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Guatemala and Barbados, and St. Lucia in the Caribbean Islands. She later served as the Peace Corps Medical Officer in Nicaragua, serving all of the volunteer health needs, and as the US Embassy Nurse in Guatemala, serving the Ambassador and the foreign service community. Her writings have been published in several medical journals and her awards have included the Benjamin Franklin Award for outstanding service; the 2006 Meritorious Award from the Ambassador of Guatemala; and the Extra Mile Award for developing a lactation program in Guatemala. She was also featured as an Outstanding Alumna in the Fall 2008 Sinclair Alumna Magazine. In 2007, she became an Oblate of the order of Benedictine Sisters at Our Lady of Peace Monastery.

Bill Hess, Class of 1971

Bill is an individual who selflessly gives of himself, spending all of his time and energy until a fellow human being's need is met. After leaving the US Air Force in 1980, Bill worked in clinical software development culminating in running a development lab for Ameritech. In 1993, he formed his own healthcare systems/consulting company in Petaluma, California; later selling this successful business in 2001 to begin ministering to his church and community. He also began doing missionary work in El Salvador; Ensenada; Mexico; and Baja, California. Over the years, Bill has become passionate 1968 David Forsthoefel has recently launched a second childhood in painting and sculpture after retiring from a career in commercial graphic design in 2005. Often, he paints with a group of fellow artists who go out into the Midwestern cities and capture the natural beauty of parks, nature preserves and local landmarks. Though his paintings are representational, he strives for an impressionistic flair, utilizing vibrant color and fluid brushwork. For more information on his art, go to <http://driveby.fineartstudioonline.com/about>.

Class Notes

1968 Ruth (Uhrig) Fulmer recently retired from Green-Oak Preschool (Kettering, Ohio) as Director. Green-Oak was like a second home for her for the past 35 years, a home filled with a seemingly endless parade of wonderful children and families. It is now time for her to focus on her aging parents and six energetic grandchildren.

1970 Br. William Rehg was recently named the new dean for the St. Louis University College of Philosophy and Letters, a program for young Jesuits studying philosophy and theology during their first years of study after the novitiate. To see the full article, go to www.carrollhs.org/alumni.

1973 Michele (Garstka) Martins' son, Benjamin, graduated May 20, 2012 from Strake Jesuit College Preparatory in Houston, Texas. Ben was awarded the Provost Gold Scholarship and will be attending Baylor University in the fall.

1975 Kevin Bourne joined the talent management staff of Saudi Aramco in February 2012. He is responsible for leadership development, succession planning, high-potential identification and development for the "Top 200" executives of the world's biggest producer of oil, petroleum and chemicals.
